Sylvie Chantecaille
Founder

Chantecaille is a luxury skincare and cosmetics company founded on a passion for nature. Our breakthrough formulas use cutting-edge technology to unlock the power of earth's own nourishing botanicals—plants and flowers with an amazing ability to calm, replenish and protect. Nature inspires us, and that inspiration is reflected not only in the products we create, but in the work we do to sustain this remarkable world all around us.

Chantecaille's philanthropic initiatives have, most recently, supported reforestation and marine conservation projects through product proceeds and consumer, industry and media education. We believe that nature can speak the language of beauty and that it is our responsibility to give a voice to the endangered species who have none. Our role as catalysts for change is best served by staying ahead of the curve. We develop fashion-forward color, healing treatments and innovative highly-effective skincare that never contains animal ingredients, synthetic color or fragrance, sulfate detergents and phthalates nor petrochemicals. We never test on animals, but because our deep respect for nature is matched only by our respect for the people who use our products, everything Chantecaille makes is dermatologically tested.
